Minutes from Previous Meeting

The main takeaways from our 4/26 meeting, was the decision to go with Vonage as our third API. We assigned respective tasks for its implementation and I(Freddy) gave a status update regarding database calls, which were still very buggy and problematic. We also as a group expected our progress to falter slightly during this week due to several exams for our team later this week. Despite this, we still recognized the urgency for our project and prioritized the finalizing of our database synchronization, and getting our Vonage API calls tested. We also discussed the necessity to test more regularly with heroku deployments, seeing as there were issues with our importing calls when ran on the server.
